Activity Information

Course Description

Recent advances in technology and research can influence the course of recovery and therefore the management and rehabilitation approaches that result in better functional outcomes for the patients with brain injuries and oncological conditions of the brain. This one day conference will provide clinicians with current treatment options for integrating the neurological pathology with the functional and behavioral impairments in assessing the rehabilitative choices in managing the patient with brain injury. Formal presentations will be accompanied by question and answer periods with general discussion.

Educational Objectives

- Apply the traumatic brain injury disease model to address non-imageable trauma to the brain injured due to trauma or tumor for applicability towards functional restoration
- Interpret the clinical results of advanced imaging and monitoring of the brain with functional and behavioral impairments to guide the course of recovery and rehabilitation

- Identify traumatic and non-traumatic post brain injury sequelae in order to select appropriate options to address them and provide improved patient outcomes
